

Adult immunization. It's your best shot!

National Adult Immunization Awareness Week

Meningococcal vaccine. Complete all your college preparation.

Meningococcal disease is a serious bacterial illness that causes an infection of the brain and spinal cord coverings. About one out of every ten people who gets meningococcal disease will die from it. College students living in dormitories are at high risk for meningococcal disease due to their close living quarters. Any student entering college in the state of Florida and living in on-campus housing should have a vaccination against meningococcal meningitis.
